Some London Overground trains are air conditioned, others are air cooled depending on what unit you travel on.

Only the four ‘sub-surface’ Underground lines have air-conditioned trains.

All new Class 345 trains - now running through the centre of London, have air conditioning.

Newer style of Trams have air conditioning.

Only ‘Central Core’ section of Thameslink is shown, trains go further.

Class 717 trains on this are air conditioned.